

The American Library in Paris

The 2015 Book Award Shortlist

Five books have been selected for the 2015 American Library in Paris Book Award:

The Marquis: Lafayette Reconsidered, by Laura Auricchio. (Knopf)

The Other Americans in Paris: Businessmen, Countesses, Wayward Youth 1880-1941, by Nancy L. Green. (University of Chicago Press)

Fatal Isolation: The Devastating Paris Heat Wave of 2003, by Richard C. Keller. (University of Chicago Press)

In Montmartre: Picasso, Matisse, and Modernism in Paris, 1900-1910, by Sue Roe. (Penguin/Fig Tree)

When Paris Went Dark: The City of Light Under German Occupation 1940-1944, by Ronald Rosbottom. (Little, Brown)

The annual Book Award and $5,000 prize honors the most distinguished book of the year, written in English, about France or the French-American encounter. The Book Award is made possible by a generous gift from the Florence Gould Foundation.

The shortlist and the choice of the winning book is now in the hands of the award jury, in 2015 consisting of Laura Furman, the chair, editor of the O. Henry Prize Stories since 2002; novelist and biographer Lily Tuck, winner of the National Book Award in Fiction; and political scientist Fredrik Logevall, author of Embers of War, winner of the first American Library in Paris Book Award in 2013, who is joining the faculty of Harvard University this fall.

Their choice of the winning book will be announced in November in the presence of the author at a ceremony in Paris.

All the submissions for the Book Award are listed on these pages and are now in the American Library's circulating collection and available for checkout by members. The shortlisted books, if not checked out, can be found on display near the entrance of the Library.
