PERFORMING A BASIC SEARCH

Step 1. Begin searching by using the search box on the front page. You can also register an account or if you have an account log in, which will allow you to save articles and create folders.

Step 2. Type your search terms in the search box and click the magnifying glass.

Step 3. Find an article through your initial search or refine your search to help narrow down your search results.

Step 4. Click on the article link. In this step you can also share, save, download or cite the source.

Step 5. If you need to refine your search use the tools on the left side to modify your search results words to get the results.

PERFORMING AN ADVANCED SEARCH

The screenshot shows the JSTOR Advanced Search page. At the top left is the JSTOR logo. To its right are navigation links: "Advanced Search", "Browse" (with a dropdown arrow), and "Tools" (with a dropdown arrow). Below this is the "Advanced Search" heading with a "Search Help" link. The search form consists of three input boxes, each with a dropdown menu set to "All fields". The first box is empty. The second box has a dropdown menu set to "AND". The third box is empty. Below the input boxes is a button labeled "Add a search box". Underneath is a section titled "Select an access type" with a dropdown menu set to "Content I can access". At the bottom of the search form is a "Search" button. Below the search form is a section titled "Narrow By:" followed by a horizontal line. Under this line is the "Item Type" section, which contains a grid of checkboxes for various item types: Articles, Research Reports, Reviews, Pamphlets, Books, and Miscellaneous.

Step 1. Click on the Advance search option.

The screenshot shows the JSTOR Advanced Search page with the search form filled out. The first input box contains the text "european migration crisis". The second input box has a dropdown menu set to "AND" and contains the text "France". The third input box has a dropdown menu set to "AND" and contains the text "populism". A red arrow points to the second input box. Below the input boxes is a button labeled "Add a search box". Underneath is a section titled "Select an access type" with a dropdown menu set to "Content I can access". At the bottom of the search form is a "Search" button. Below the search form is a section titled "Narrow By:" followed by a horizontal line. Under this line is the "Item Type" section, which contains a grid of checkboxes for various item types: Articles (checked), Research Reports, Reviews, Pamphlets, Books, and Miscellaneous.

Step 2. Type in your search terms using the search boxes. You can use multiple search boxes and use the drop-down Boolean operators of AND, OR & NOT to get the best results. Consider using quotation marks to get the exact words used in your search to show up in your results. You can also use the refine results options below to limit your search results by item type and publication date.

Step 3. Review your search results to see if they match what you are searching for. You can use the search box above to modify your search or use the refine your search options on the left side of the page.

Step 4. Click on the article title or Download PDF Full to see the entire article.

Step 5. When you click on the article you have options to share, save, download, and cite this article. *The citation tool allows you to choose the citation format you need for your paper. Be sure to always double check your citation to make sure it is formatted correctly.
