e-Libris

Please note that e-Libris will be taking a short break, returning with our rentrée issue on 4 September. Have a great summer!

Director's Note

A Summer Rubik's Cube

This summer the American Library will be rectifying a longstanding peculiarity in the way its book collections are physically arranged. For years, even decades, the Library's biography, mystery, art, and fiction collections each have been divided – partly on the mezzanine and partly on the ground floor, under no useful organizing principle.

Executing this dramatic shift of tens of thousands of books -- a librarian's Rubik's cube -- will require the use of a portion of the reading room as a work space during the summer months. Books temporarily unavailable in open stacks can be retrieved by staff and volunteers. We apologize for the temporary inconvenience, and wish you a safe and pleasant summer. For the full story, read more on the Library's blog.

And coming in the evenings this autumn . . .

We had an amazing year of programs at the Library and warm thanks goes out to the Annenberg Foundation and gifts from members and donors for allowing us to host these programs. There is much to anticipate for evenings coming this autumn, so here's a preview of what's to come:

help us decorate the children's room with some red, white and blue symbols from France and the USA. Check it out here.
