Library events: Gilets Jaunes, the Energy Crisis, and Arts Advocacy

Members of the American Library in Paris are avid readers. And although reading is a solitary activity (unless you're reading out loud to rapt listeners), there are many ways to engage with others at the Library. Our evening events this month highlight the climate and political challenges we face.

On Tuesday 22 January, the Library will host a panel discussion on the Gilets Jaunes movement, inequality, and the future of politics in France with journalists Sophie Peder (The Economist), Adam Nossiter (The New York Times), Marc-Olivier Bherer (Le Monde), and moderated by Karina Piser (Institute of Current World Affairs).

On Wednesday 23 January, Thierry Lequerc will discuss, in French, the challenges of energy today and offer insights on mass-solutions in "Energy Chaos: Is There a Way Out?" in partnership with MIT Club de France and INSEAD Energy Club.

On Tuesday 29 January, Chinese British author and filmmaker Xiaolu Guo will be in conversation with programs coordinator Catherine Olien about her autobiography Nine Continents: A Memoir In and Out of China. On Wednesday 30 January, writer, playwright, and filmmaker Alan Govenar will talk about the career and life of Anne Morgan, who co-founded the Committee for Devastated France (CARD) with physician Anne Murray Dike.

Library Book Groups

There is still space remaining in several of our Library Book Groups and we're delighted to announce another brand new book group that will begin meeting in February. There is no additional fee for the book groups, but you must be a Library member to participate. Space is limited. To sign up for a group, please send an email (with your membership number) to programs@americanlibraryinparis.org.

Analyzing Michiko Kakutani's The Death of Truth

Led by: Ronald Gerard Smith

Description: In light of the fact that the notion of truth – essential to civilization and culture e.g. in society, being able to problem-solve; in business, to fairly transact; in nature, to understand; in art, to determine worth, like libraries, etc. – is under attack from many quarters (and some people are doubtful of the idea to begin with), we will consider Michiko Kakutani's recent polemic The Death of Truth over three Thursdays. Kakutani is the former chief book critic for The New York Times.

Dates: All meetings will be at 18h00 on Thursdays (21 February, 21 March, and 11 April)

Apply now for the Visiting Fellowship

The Library is now accepting applications for Fall 2019 and Spring 2020 Visiting Fellows.

The fellowship offers writers and researchers an opportunity to pursue a creative project in Paris for a month or longer while participating actively in the life of the American Library. Applicants should be working on a book project, fiction or non-fiction, or a feature-length documentary film, that contributes to cross-cultural discourse. Particular attention will be paid to an applicant's ability to offer the Library community a variety of opportunities for exploring a topic. In addition to the stipend, the Library will connect the fellow to resources and individuals in Paris that could be helpful to his or her project. The fellowship is open to all nationalities, though the proposed project must be in English.

Please see the Library website for further details.

This application cycle will close on 15 February 2019.

January Culture Picks by Mike Duffy

This month's Culture Picks by volunteer Mike Duffy highlight two very different 19th century approaches to life along with an exhibition tracing 5,000 years of art and design in Latin America. The art-for-art's sake, mystical loner Fernand Khnopff is featured in a comprehensive show at the Petit Palais, while the Nadars, a family of entrepreneurial, technical experimenters in photography, appear in an outstanding presentation at the Bibliothèque Nationale François Mitterrand. At the Fondation Cartier, Southern Geometries brings a wide range of artworks, from several thousand years ago to several weeks ago, including pottery, painting, prints, textiles and more all employing geometric designs in a lively, cheerful, color filled display.

From Conflict to Collaboration workshop for parents

Do you ever feel frustrated with your child/teen? Find yourself shouting and imposing consequences in reaction to challenging behavior but it doesn't often work? Imagine having a simple framework that guides you in every parenting challenge and brings out the best in both you and your child. On Saturday 2 February at 16h30, join parenting coach Karen Kraut for an overview of the Collaborative Problem Solving approach, which gives parents concrete tools to relate better to their kids, reduce their challenging behavior, and build their skills in self-regulation, communication and problem-solving.

Participants of this workshop may sign up for a three-part follow-up series of workshops with Karen on Wednesdays 6, 13, and 20 February from 18h30-20h30. This workshop is recommended for parents of children and teens ages 3-18. Sign-up is required.

Winter Wonderland for all ages

The Library's Winter Wonderland will be held on Saturday 26 January from 15h00-17h00 with music, stories, winter crafts and games for all ages, followed by a visit from Frosty the Snowman and other wonderful guests!

Each child will go home with a special winter treat courtesy of the Library.

Light refreshments will be provided and no advance registration is required. Children must be accompanied by an adult.
