Summer News

Walls are coming down, and the Project 100 expansion of the Children's Library and Teen Mezzanine (plus the addition of a new, multi-purpose classroom for all ages) is progressing. Many thanks to the Library's Board of Trustees, donors, and supporters for making the expansion possible.

Please ask a staff member if you need help retrieving a book that is behind protective plastic sheeting.

Construction updates will be shared on the Library's social media, and we can't wait to unveil the results in the fall. #project100

- Summer hours will continue through July and August: Tue-Fri: 13h-18h | Sat: 11h-16h30.
- We're offering extended borrowing during July and August and will be happy to accommodate your holiday schedule. If you would like extensions on books you have borrowed, please come in and speak to our staff or email info@americanlibraryinparis.org and let us know how long you would like to keep your items.
- We're excusing all fines for late books through the end of the August.
- e-Libris will be taking a summer break after this issue and will return the last week of August. Have a fun and safe holiday, and we look forward to seeing everyone at the Library in September.

Century Gala

Last week the Library announced plans for our Century Gala on 8 October 2020. We're honored to invite you to the Library's centennial celebration. The Gala is the Library's most important fundraising event of the year, and your support is needed now more than ever.

You may have questions about this unique, hybrid virtual/in-person event: "What technology do I need to participate?" or "I'm not in Paris—may I still attend?"

We are happy to work with you individually to answer all your questions and discuss the best way for you to join this celebration of our century of service and support the Library. Please contact Morgan Wurzburger, the Library's Advancement Manager and your Century Gala Concierge.

A message from Celeste Rhoads, Children's and Teens' Services Manager:

The past few weeks have been busy with preparations for the expansion of the Children's Library and Teen Mezzanine and the addition of a multi-purpose classroom, all slated for completion in the fall. It's been a whirlwind of moving furniture, books, and people, and since construction started in earnest, you'll notice the protective plastic sheeting and noise that inevitably accompanies an exciting project like this one. Staff has done their utmost to make sure that most of our collections remain accessible to members, but if you need help navigating the stacks, we're here to help.

As with adult programs, we are still hosting virtual events for children and teens. We have offered over fifty online events for young people since March, with the help of our dedicated team of volunteers. Over 200 people tuned in for our virtual celebration ceremony for the Young Authors Fiction Festival (YAFF), and our Indoor Dance Parties during the confinement had scores of dancers tuning in from across France. Virtual events will continue through August, complemented by a few small, in-person events held in the park on the Champ de Mars (registration required) in July.

A special thank you to volunteers Jack and Mary Wessels, Clarence Tokley, Heidi Wayne, Amy Plum, Peregrine Olander, Pauline Charruyer, Olena Anikieieva-Crevel, Briana Seftel, Jean Ravelet, Libby Harris, Rebecca Lim, Carly Bisek, and our entire YAFF committee. Thanks also to all of the families who have sent messages of appreciation for our events, shared their artwork, and stopped by in person to say hello since the Library reopened to the public!

Virtual Programs for Adults

Fall Preview:

Adult events are on hiatus now through August and will pick up again on 1 September. Programs will remain virtual through the month of September. Starting 1 September, our workshops and Evenings with an Author offerings will move back to their standard time slots at 19h00 and 19h30 Central European Time, respectively.

- Hollis Clayson on her latest book, Illuminated Paris: Essays on Art and Lighting in the Belle Epoque (1 September)
- Greg Garrett talking about A Long, Long Way: Hollywood's Unfinished Journey from Racism to Reconciliation (2 September)
- Alice Jardine presenting At the Risk of Thinking: An Intellectual Biography of Julia Kristeva (8 September)
- Tony Maniaty on the intersection between cinema and writing in his journalism career (9 September)
- Mamta Chaudhry on her debut novel Haunting Paris (16 September)
- Clara Oropeza speaking on Anaïs Nin: A Myth of Her Own (22 September)
- Kirstin Chen bringing us to Hong Kong with Bury What We Cannot Take (30 September)

You may begin to register for these events via our website beginning in mid-August. We'll share a sign-up reminder in e-Libris at the end of August.

A message from Catherine Olien, Programs Manager:

This spring the Library swiftly adapted to the challenges of confinement and shifted its programming to online spaces. We were overjoyed at the response. Many of you made the digital leap with us and found meaningful connection, reliable information, and relaxing entertainment in this new era of social distancing.

Members and new faces alike attended our virtual events during the months of April, May, June, and July. Our adult programs became completely free of charge, including the five virtual workshops we hosted during this period, with topics ranging from introductions to Nia Dance to painting with watercolors to processing the confinement experience through writing.

Evenings with an Author moved from the Florence Gould Reading Room to Zoom, where thirteen public events attracted a majority of non-members, with attendees tuning in almost evenly from the US and France. We reached over 500 people live through these meetings and many more via our podcast and YouTube channel, where videos of past events can be found. Many book group leaders likewise took their discussions to online platforms, allowing members to gather from all over the world and continue to share and celebrate their love of reading and books.

The Library has reopened for browsing, but, for now, all adult events will remain virtual to ensure the safety of our community. We are heartened by your enthusiastic participation and support throughout these past months, and we hope you will continue to log in on online until we can welcome you back in person. An announcement will be made in e-Libris as soon as programming can resume at the Library.

Visit our Facebook page for information about upcoming virtual events and Evenings with an Author.
